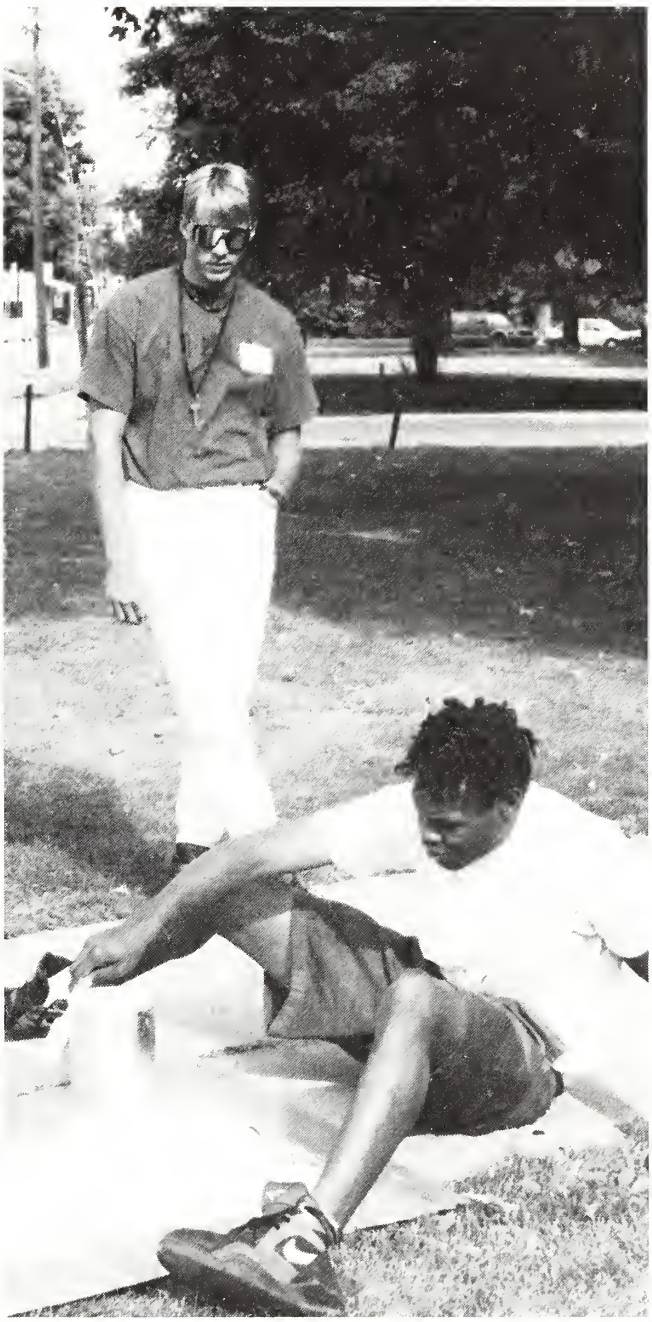
someTIMES . . .

. . . we built mountains out of molehills, pyramids where human flesh once stood, but more often than not each day was a re-awakening, experiencing things we had only read about before . . .

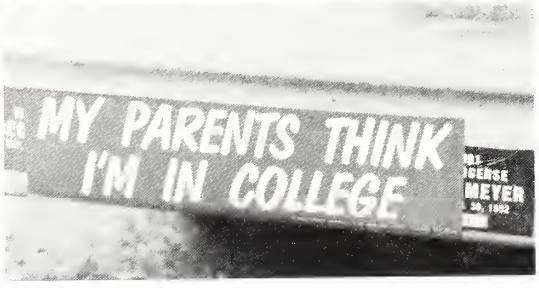


a Year as . . .

Making Friends

Banding together . . .
finding solace in the fact that others
. . .are having problems with calculus,
. . .have lost their meal book,
. . .can't find purpose in CORE,
. . .that other's don't have wheels either,
. . .that alarm clocks are harder to set to 7:00 a.m. than to 10:00 a.m.,
. . .really abide by INTERVIS.

a Year as . . .



Learning . . .

That the inanimate can . . .

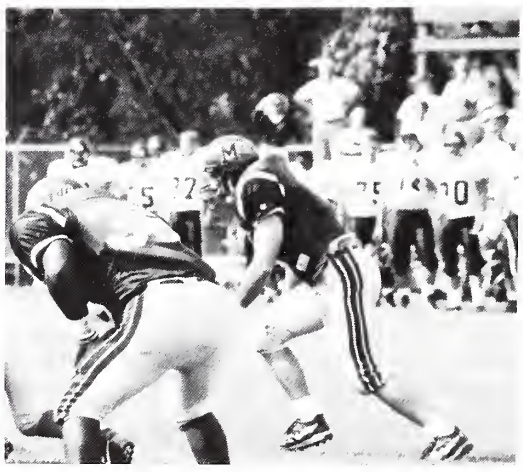
. . . teach us about the world,
. . . teach us about our environment,
. . . teach us about our associations,
. . . teach us about our future responsibilities.

a Year as . . .

A Beginning . . .

Pulling together to . . .

. . . help each other get off the ground,
. . . raise to newer heights,
. . . share in our committments,
. . . realize we are all operating within the same confines.



a Year as . . .

Align your sights and see that . . .

It's more than coming home.

. . . more like making someone feel special,
. . . more like seeing your plans go wild,
. . . more like lining up to defend your territory.

a Year as . . .

Crammin' All You Can . . .

So that you'll have time to . . .

. . . know what you can collectively accomplish,

. . . know what you can create,

. . . know that ability is nothing unless it is shared,

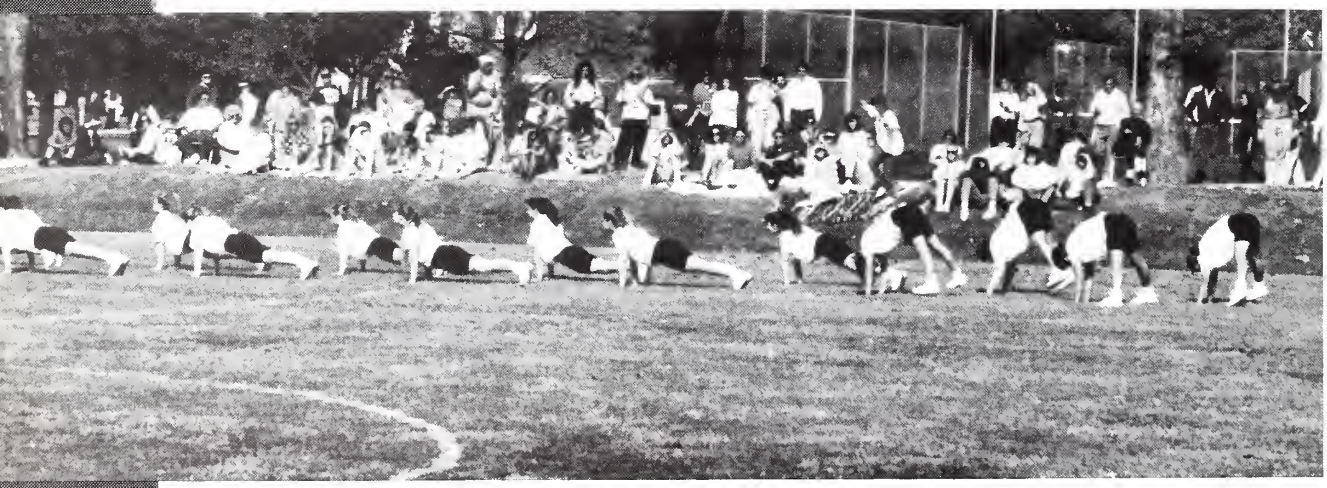
. . . know that Spring surely must follow Winter.

a Year as . . .

More than just passing some time

Walking in the shadows of . . .

. . . those who have seen more than we have,
. . . those who have laughed more than we have laughed,
. . . those whose ideas might benefit mine,
. . . those who might teach me about what I have not felt .



a Year as . . .

Don't make me just another face in the crowd . . .

I'm more than that.

. . . I didn't come here to walk where others have walked,
. . . and not learn to carve my own trail
. . . out of new soil if I thought I might be better
. . . and to know the difference should I not.

Pamela Lynn Blue
1972-1993

BY LISA KERNEK
Jacksonville Journal-Courier
March 3, 1993

MacMurray College students loved listening to the voice of Pamela Blue.

On Tuesday, March 2, 1993, they listened to her sing one last time on a recording played at a memorial service for Ms. Blue, a 20-year-old Raleigh native who died Feb. 18.

Students, professors and family members gathered in the college chapel for prayers, songs by the college choir and speeches from friends. The service followed a week of mourning in which the college chaplain met with students, counselors were on hand and the college provided two vans to take students to Ms. Blue's funeral Feb. 22 in Harrisburg.

"We do steps like this memorial service to begin in the healing process," MacMurray College chaplain Jonathan Dixon said. "It's just like a family, but larger. You have to go through the same steps."

As they filed into the chapel, students and faculty members paused at a table of photographs of the dark-haired, delicate-featured Ms. Blue, which stood next to a poem and flowers. Some photographs showed her with family members or with her fiance, James Caban of Woodson.

Inside, friends remembered her as a deeply religious, talented singer who was active in the college choir and in the Christian student group, Brothers and Sisters in Christ.

"She had lots of friends, lost and lots of friends," recalled Kathy Scroggins, a 19-year-old friend who spoke during the service.

For some students, the incident marked their first encounter with death — especially the death of a peer.

The incident was especially traumatic for students in Rutledge Hall, Ms. Blue's dormitory. Jennifer O'Hare, 18, was in the building on the day Ms. Blue, who suffered from a heart condition, was discovered unconscious in her room and could not be revived.

"It was really quiet that day," Ms. O'Hare said. "Normally, you have music or something."

Now, she says she reflects more on her own mortality, especially when she parts with family members.

Pam Blue

"You want to have every goodbye be more meaningful," she said. "You never know what's going to happen."

I'm Free

Don't grieve for me, for now I'm free.
I'm following the path God laid for me.
I took His hand when I heard Him call.
I turned my back and left it all.

I could not stay another day
to laugh, to love, to work or play.
Tasks left undone must stay that way.
I found that peace at the close of day.

If my parting has left a void
Then fill it with remembered joy.
A friendship shared, a laugh, a kiss.
Oh yes, these things I too will miss.

Be not burdened with times of sorrow.
I wish you the sunshine of tomorrow.
My life's been full, I savored much.
Good friends, good times, a loved one's touch.

Perhaps my time seemed all too brief.
Don't lengthen it now with undue grief.
Lift up your heart and share with me.
God wanted me now. He set me free.

Holy Fools

We're all fools for Christ's Sake!

Advisor's Notes:
I feel it is only appropriate to thank our two development staff summer student workers, Kati Killen and Cathy Sestak, for all of their hard work and for helping us to make major progress on this book this past summer. Also, thanks goes to Eric Thomas in the Alumni Office for his pitching in where needed. But, most of all, I want to thank Mike Frandson, the Herff man, for the hours and hours he spent on this book. Thanks again, and let's not do it again, okay?!?!

We started out number four and grew quickly to the top . . .
counting on a few friends to get us through . .

and at times depending only on our own resources . . .

there was always something to keep us going and someday

we'll all look back on this and laugh.

And more!

Most did feel a little mixed up those first few days. . .

. . .but we still laughed about it.

There's more to come . . .
